DEDICATION

In grateful recognition of the whole-hearted enthusiasm with which he has supported all our efforts, both as a class and as individuals, and of the splendid efforts which he himself has made in our behalf, we respectfully dedicate this yearbook to our principal and friend:

ARTHUR E. BOUDREAU

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1936

I consider it a great privilege to have known so many of your class unusually well during the last year of your high school course.

I have been greatly pleased with the fine spirit you have shown, and I particularly like the support you have given to your new principal in the first year of his administration. I am sure he will always remember it with gratitude.

The leadership of the senior class is a matter of great importance in any high school, and I feel that the leadership shown by your class has been sound and wholesome.

If I can be of service to you at any time, I hope you will be sure to let me know.

With kindest regards,

Faithfully yours,

EDWARD R. CLARKE, Superintendent of Schools.

TO THE CLASS OF 1936

It is with a great deal of regret that I realize that this school year has passed and that the Winthrop Senior High School is about to lose you through graduation. May I extend my sincere congratulations and Godspeed?

We, your teachers, will long remember the co-operation, intelligence and spirit of loyalty to your school that you have always manifested, individually and collectively. We want you to remember that we of the faculty will always consider ourselves as your friends; and if we can be of any further service to you, do not hesitate to call upon us.

Sincerely,

Arthur E. Boudreau, Principal.

SENIOR CLASS BALLOT

For many years it has been the custom to vote upon those outstanding in the salient characteristics that mark each and every assembled school group. We have this year a diversified list which, although not entirely complete, indicates in a general manner the outstanding members of the senior class.

It is admissible that scholastic ability represents an admirable trait. We have first as Best Students, Sylvia Indech and Howard Freeman, while Frances Collins is also appreciated by the class.

Naturally our sense of art and beauty compels us to ask for those Best Looking, and here are found Lenora Smith and Robert Belcher, with Robert Searle close behind.

Our two best athletes are, by common consent, Cynthia Harding and Philip Chardon, while also adept at all sports parade Priscilla Partridge and Andrew Reagan.

Most Dignified are Barbara Hewitt and Warren Boutelle; and seeing the possibility of coming in second and still being dignified, we find Barbara Edwards and Richmond Terry.

Clothes are a compelling interest with many; and in the van come Priscilla Partridge and Doris Paine, while the young man's style is set by Thomas Hancock.

To Barbara Edwards and Frank Baumeister goes the honor of Best Bluffer, with William Cook also insisting that he is in the running.

Wit springs from keen minds, with Margaret Carey and William Goodwin just about leading Margaret Higgins and Burton Segal to the title of Wittiest.

Everyone loves a warm heart, and to Martha Mitten and Samuel Block go honors for Best Natured, while still cheering the hearts of their classmates laugh Barbara Edwards and Robert Belcher.

To be called Most Versatile is indeed a compliment, and we have here no less than Martha Mitten and Robert Belcher, with Barbara Edwards and John Gillespie seconding the list.

Most Pleasing Personalities again have Martha Mitten and Robert Belcher, who just barely precede Ruth Floyd and John Gillespie.

And last but not least, the Class of 1936 recommends as Most Promising, Frances Collins, Robert Searle, Sylvia Indech and Howard Freeman; and to them is assured many future possibilities in this modern world.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY OF 1936

Hello, folks! This is the March of Time of the High School Years of the Graduating Class of 1936.

(Roll of drums.) Sophomore Year!—Great and glad tidings of joy. The Sophomore Social in '34 proved to be a triumphant success, proving to the Graduating Class of '34 that the class of '36 had a clever group of students. President Robert Belcher, aided by his excellent committee and officers, worked hard and was well rewarded. Remember the humility and long suffering, oh, '36, we underwent as Sophomores?

(Roll of drums.) Junior Year! We had a good group of class officers this year, with Philip Chardon as President. We appointed excellent committees who served us faithfully and well. Outstanding among their achievements was the Junior Social. It was well attended and tremendously enjoyed. Our actors and actresses played important parts in the School Play. Barbara Edwards, Hope Ellis, and Douglas Reed played their parts excellently. Our sports, too, brought us fame. "Phil" Chardon rose to stardom in football, unusual for a Junior. The boys held good positions on all teams and the girls were well placed in field hockey and tennis, with such girls as Martha Mitten, Peggy Higgins, and Cynthia Harding, our outstanding girl athlete, competing with the Seniors.

(Blare of trumpets and roll of drums.) Senior Year! Sit up and take notice! We began the year by electing as our class officers: President, Robert Belcher; Vice-President, Henry Schreiber; Secretary, Jeanette Beebe; Treasurer, Mr. Davis; and Marshal, Samuel Block. We had throughout the year outstanding classmates serve on our committees. Our first Senior Social, which was a Masquerade Ball, was a grand novelty and made a big hit. The sailors and officers of both army and navy turned out in full style, accompanied by representatives of all nationalities. Eleanor Balkan, as a little Dutch Girl (wooden shoes, buckets and all), and "Al" Feeley, as a Turk (arrayed in turkish towels), won the prizes for the best costumes. Everyone reported having had a good time. Then came the Operetta which proved to be a great success. The stars, John Gillespie, Viola Belcher, Douglas Reed, Dorothy Merrill, George Blair, Robert Belcher, and Ethel Keough, showed great talent, both vocal and dramatic. Seventy-five dollars for the Flood Relief Fund was made by putting on a benefit performance.

From here we jump to the Senior Play. This, too, added great credit to the Class of '36. Robert Belcher made another smashing hit as the butler, a minor part but majorly played. Other stars were Barbara Edwards, Bernard Glaser, Virginia Ingersoll, Billy Cook, Mary Jane Thomas, and Eugene White.

On to a gay and joyful mood. Our Farewell Dance! What fun! The girls in their semi-formal dresses made a colorful sight. The King and Queen of the May were chosen and turned out to be none other than Esther Boland and Francis Duffy. Our well-liked couple, "Nunny" Smith and "Bill" Wincapaw, won the Elimination Dance and were well applauded. The favors and decorations were both unique and cute. All in all, it was another bang-up affair that the Social Committee put over.

Our sports fared well. Our football stars, Frankie Baumeister and Howard Freeman, went over big. Cynthia Harding scored a hit as captain of the Girls' Field Hockey Team. She and her girls were well trained by Miss Frances Crowley, Assistant Gym Instructor, and fought many a hard battle. Haugh has fooled many by becoming our star pitcher in baseball. One would never know that the Haugh in the class room and the Haugh on the diamond were one and the same person. Basketball turned out successfully and Coach Perry's boys proved their ability.

Our class meetings were a howling (?) success. Everyone seemed to agree not to agree, if you know what I mean. "Bobby" Belcher, being a good executive, kept them well in hand, though, and with a few helpful hints from Mr. Davis about law and amendments (we never did get them straight) we reached many final decisions.

As this was Mr. Boudreau's first year as principal and we were his first graduating class, we decided to be different and have a year well-remembered for its unusualness. This has been well lived up to. It was voted to wear the same outfits both Class Day and Graduation Day. The girls are wearing white suits, white blouses, blue kerchiefs, and white shoes. The boys are wearing white suits, white shirts, blue ties and white shoes. Snappy, eh what?

Gone are the feminine laces and frills and in its place we have sportlike shoes and kerchiefs. What price modernism!

Our class day schedule has been entirely changed. An amateur program has been planned, aided by the talents of '36. No class singing, either, but a Glee Club instead. Yes! '36 is being different.

Well, time marches on, and as the years go by, the students of '36 can look back over their history and applaud their successes in many lines and their individuality in all lines.

CLASS PROPHECY FOR 1936

May 1, 1950, was such a beautiful spring day that Robert Belcher, one of Boston's prominent bankers, decided that he would take the day off and play a round of golf with Jean Reed, who had just signed up with the Metropolitan Opera Company.

As he walked past Eunice Neuhoff's florist shop, a car dashed around the corner at a terrific rate, knocking him down. Patrolman Archdeacon stopped the car, and State Senator Bernard Glaser stepped out with his secretary, Ruth Cohen. He had a passing postman, Irving Bramson, send for a doctor, but it was not necessary, for just then the Reagan Brothers' Ambulance dashed up. However, Doctor Reevan Levine had already put the man in one of D'Angelo's taxis, and taken him to the Marden Memorial Hospital, of which Henry Schreiber is superintendent. He summoned brain specialist Howard Freeman to save the man.

Meanwhile Jean was becoming worried, as she waited at Caprarella's Drug Store, across the street from Kilgore's Music Store. She saw a maestro, Donald McCullough, coming out, and asked his help.

"Yes, I'll help you," he said, "but I must pick up Douglas Reed, my concert master, first. He and David McGaw are playing at a Musicale at George Wells' home."

"All right. Say, do I know your chauffeur?"

"Yes, that's Thomas Bolton. He was in our class in high school."

"Oh, I remember."

"Say, did you know that John Gillespie was playing small comedy parts in Hollywood?"

"No, I didn't. But I do know that Philip Chardon is becoming quite well-known as a director, and that Dorothy Hughes and Virginia Bright are his two favorite scenarists."

"Well, quite a lot of our former classmates seem to be making a success of their lives. Barbara Hewitt has just returned from Europe, where she has been studying the situation with Ambassador Blair. She had just turned in a report to Secretary of State McDonald, when he met her at a tea at Senator Sylvia Indech's apartment. She used to be a teacher at Carol Ellegard's school for girls, but Jean Hatch took her place when she left. Miss Ellegard certainly believes in employing Winthrop people. Her advertising manager is Albert Call, and Robert Berger is the doctor on call."

"Speaking of old times, whatever happened to Doris Paine?"

"Oh, she married a wealthy banker. She and Eugene Lappen, a music critic were influential in getting me my audition with director Stuart Silliker."

"Well, here's Douglas, waiting for you now."

Driving down the street, they came upon a crowd. Gordon Holland, a street car conductor, told them what had happened. Jean fainted, but Dr. Rose Aloia brought her to. At the hospital, they found that the victim would live. As they were leaving, who should they meet but Mrs. Donglas Bradshaw. When asked what she was doing, she told them that she had come to see her husband, who was very ill. He needed a change of climate, she told them, but they didn't feel they could afford it.

"Well isn't that a coincidence!" exclaimed Douglas. "I'm having my pilot, Wilfred Holsberg, fly me to Texas for my vacation. You two could come with me. But what is Douglas doing now, anyway?"

"He was working for the Doherty's Lithograph when he became sick."

"Will you two come with me?"

"If Douglas is willing."

"After all this excitement, I think we all deserve a movie," said Jean. "Shall we go to see Hope Ellis and Eugene White in 'Her Latest Conquest?' It is a very good picture."

"I'd like to, but I promised Lois Batchelder I'd take her to see Eleanor Balkan's diving exhibition," said Donald. "Professor Astrley is going to be there with his secretary Frances Gray. The tennis champion, Teddy Beless, is expected, as well as Marie Bither, the budding toe dancer. All these celebrities are under the management of Frances Gray."

"I'd like to go with you, Jean," said Douglas.

"Come on, then, let's go."

As they were getting on the subway, she said, "Did you know that William Cook is the new president of the Boston Elevated? At the last directors' meeting Norman Herman pushed the vote for him through."

"Say, that's great! A lot of our classmates are making a name for themselves. Edith Armstrong's last book of poetry was a wow, and you should read 'Death in Perdue' by Kenneth Arvedon. It would make your hair curl."

"And what about the beautiful dresses that Freda Zarsky and Margaret Hutchinson design? I hear that Viola Belcher and Edith Goldberg are modeling them."

"Priscilla Partridge's baseball team is doing a fine job, with Warren Boutelle as pitcher, and Barbara Edwards publicity manager. And Irving Swartz and Arthur McLean don't do half bad either. They have won the world series three years running."

"They aren't the only ones that have been making a name for themselves in the sport world. Phyllis Lunsford has broken several national records in swimming, and Helen Jacobs is following in her namesake's footsteps. What do you think of Nelson Powell's winning the world's heavyweight championship? Well, here's our station."

But just as they were entering Titus' Palace Royale, fire engines dashed by, with Jeremiat Sundlovitz at the wheel. They chased the engines as far as Wallace's Department Store. The fire was across the street in Richmond Terry's big furniture store, which was completely demolished, despite the efforts of fire chief, William Poor. However, Elliott's Insurance Company had to stand a good deal of the loss. The greatest thrill was when Frank Baumeister, a clerk, bravely dashed back into the store and rescued Edith Wilson and Florence Rowe, who had been overcome by the smoke.

Douglas and Jean went to Hancock's restaurant for a bite to eat. Edna Zepperniek, the great woman hiker, was dining with Lorraine Graham, a well-known artist. They all sat down together and started chatting. Edna disclosed the fact that her shoes were all bought at Skolnick's Shoe Store, and were made by Ross Stanley.

"That certainly ought to be a good advertisement for them," said Doug-

"It is," she answered. "And believe me, William Goodwin, their advertising manager, makes quite a point of it."

"Well, if there isn't Jeanette Beebe, the famous aviatrix," exclaimed Jean.

"Yes, she works for Carter's Air Line, you know," said Edna.

"No, I didn't," responded Jean, "but I did know that John Vestute taught her to fly."

"She isn't the only one in our class that flies," said Douglas. "Lenora Smith, Thomas Kelly, Betty Merritl, Robert Remer, Thomas Lehman, and Allen Kofman all work on Roger Steward's Air Line."

"Oh, if there isn't Sammy Bloch, selling newspapers," said Lorraine. "Let's buy Segal's Daily Crier. Peggy Higgins writes wonderful editorials for it."

"I'll have one of Martha Mitten's 'Highbrow'," said Douglas. "Solomon Rubin's sport comments are great."

"Well, just look!" exclaimed Edna, "Here's an 'Advice to the Love-Lorn' column, written by Engene Williams. And here's an article by beauty-specialist Freda Fotenakes. She gave Peggy Carey and Eleanor Hinkley their perfect figures.''

"Oh, look!" exclaimed Lorraine. "Alice Fisher is going to make her debut as a pianist at Jordan Hall. She is being presented by Roger Call."

"Look what it says in the head lines," put in Jean. "Richard Pheasant is engineering a road for contractor Elden Stuart in Arizona. They wanted to cut through Penelope and Louis Dracos' ranch, but Herbert Bortman is fighting against it. Mayor William Guptill had Chief of Police Gerald Donley serve them with a summons. The case was taken to Judge Brill's court. Esther Boland and Carl Cohen, who own land where the road was to be cut through, are joining forces with the Dracos. Evelyn Black, Hannah Campbell, Ruby Brown, and Anita Carrington are all on the jury. Paul Brooks, however, let them cut through his golf course, and he agrees with Superintendent of Schools Ltoyd Creighton that the company should have the right to do this."

"What an awful mess," said Lorraine. "Let's look for something more cheerful. Here's an article by Marie Winston on 'What to Eat and How.' She attended Betty Lehr's Domestic Science School, where Dorothy Merrill and Fairfax Proetor are teachers."

"That reminds me," said Douglas, "Wyndham Proetor and George Russell have just perfected an automatic ink wiper. MaeEachern, MeEachern, and MaeGregor are going to furnish their office with them."

"How odd it is that three women should all be contractors," said Lorraine.

"Oh, it was Charles Willock, the town clerk, who put them up to it. Leroy Sloeum sold the business to them when he went into professional baseball. Robert Wolf and Frank Grady are their two best architects. They are building a house for Earle Sorenson, now. Walter Meryman is the carpenter, Carl Conklin the electrician, and Ethel Keough the plumber (ess)."

"Oh, is she?" cried Jean. "She always said she would become a better plumber than George MeAuliffe."

"Well," said Edna, rising, "Lorraine and I must be going. We are going with Thomas Curran and Charles Mahoney to see their new swimming pool at Revere Beach. Afterwards we are going to have THE GREAT JINXO (Louis Belli) read our fortunes."

Hardly had they gone, when in walked Mary Jane Thomas, the tap-dancing sensation, with her manager, David Harrigan. When she saw Jean, she rushed over.

"Oh, Jean," she cried, "I just heard about Bob. Will he be all right?" "Yes, the accident wasn't at all serious," she replied. "Sit down, won't you? Douglas and I were just talking over old times."

"Oh, you were? I just saw Louise Vestute this morning demonstrating the new MeCluskey Washer in Ceder's Department Store; and when I came in the store, Marie Mulloy and Evelyn Thurston both waited on me—they're salesgirls there now, you know; and I was waited on in the cafeteria by Ruth Robbs; when I found a nail in my food, I called the manager, Paul Petralia. He took me out to see the cook, who turned out to be Galen Belcher; and when I returned to finish eating, I met Doris Libbey with her three children; and as I rushed to my car, I collided with Winthrop Moore in a sailor suit—he's been sailing on Hersey's yacht for the last ten years."

"Why! You certainly know a lot about our former classmates!"

"And he told me that when he was in the navy, his Admiral was Albert Jordan. I also met Marjorie Duguid today—she's an Air Hostess. Barbara Thomas and Miriam Shorley are Air Hostesses on the same line with her. And did you know that Lillian Flanagan was first assistant secretary to the Secretary of State—quite a responsible position? And—and——"

"Sounds like 'old home week'," put in Dave, "I met Virginia Visconte in the Post Office yesterday. She said that she and Rita Silck both worked as clerks there, and that Robert Topaz drives a Mack truck.

"Well, I can go you one better," retorted Douglas. "Helen Cataldo tells bedtime stories on the radio, Phyllis Chisholm is a blues singer, and Barbara Christopher is the first woman announcer."

"Oh," said Jean, "did you hear Grace Thomas' lecture on 'Women's Place in Polities?' She said that Irene Patsos is a future president of the United States. Just imagine! She said also that women have already entered in the field of diplomacy-notably Anna Snyder, Lillian Spano, and Eleanor Freeman."

"Women still have a long way to go to beat men at politics," retorted

Douglas.

"Is that so?" cried Jean. "Didn't Gertrude Shapiro defeat Joseph Silverman for Congressman? Didn't Alma Stone defeat Charles Loomis for State Isn't Miss Eugenia McCarthy the only real opposition Kenneth Fowler has for the position of Governor? Isn't that true?

"Yes, but woman's place is in the home, as Dorothea Tauchen, the well-known authority on affairs of the heart, says," argued Douglas.

"In the home, huh!" scoffed Mary Jane. "As if there weren't less graft and more jobs since Sadie Swartz was appointed Secretary of State, and George Stevens took charge of pensions. As if there wasn't less strife between nations since Genevieve Richmond started negotiations with the prominent women of European nations? I tell you, this is fast becoming a woman's world."

'Gosh, how you scare us,' laughed Dave.

"Laugh if you wish, you'll see," flung back Mary Jane.

- "Well, Douglas, I must be getting home to rehearse with Julian Morris for my newest opera," said Jean.
  - "Oh, is that the one Thelma Goldfader composed?" asked Mary Jane.

"Yes," assured Jean, "and Jennie Giacoumis wrote the libretto."

- "You see!" said Mary Jane, triumphantly. "Women even compose
- "And, what's more, Harriet Goranson and Cynthia Harding are heading an expedition to the Antarctic," put in Jean.

"All right, we concede you the victory. Let's go, Jean," laughed Douglas. "I have called my chauffeur, Jack Cohen."

"Will you stop at the library for some books that Ruth Steed has saved for me?" asked Jean, as they got into the car.

"Of course. What books are you getting?"

"One is Bring 'Em Back Dead Or Alive' by Robert Searle, and the other is 'How to Keep From Growing Old' by Claire Rogers. I just read a very absorbing history of old Rome by Leonard Rice, the other day."

"Say, Jean, how would like to go with me tomorrow, to hear Frances Collins' lecture on the South Sea Islands?"

"I'd love to, but I have an appointment at Schwartz's Beauty Shoppe. Esther Silin is going to give me a permanent. I don't know as I'll be through in time."

The car soon stopped at the library and they went in for Jean's books. As they went into the reading room, whom should they meet but Sydney Cohen, who was studying for his Master's degree in electrical engineering. While they were talking, he told them that his text books were published by Duffy and Dwyer, and printed by Ellsworth Sawyer and Stuart Gilchrist. He was working for his degree at Litchfield's Graduate School.

"I ran into Roslyn Sinkovitz the other day in Snyder's Delicatessen. She and Sophic Karshinsky own the restaurant in William Curran's hotel. I was surprised when she told me that Mary Phelan was doing research work for Sumner Freedland, who is trying to invent a new synthetic rubber for Goodearl Tires, Inc. And what a shock it was when she said that Priscilla Evitts does all explorer Nicolas' taxidermy. She buys all her chemicals at Carleton Gray's drug store."

"Do you ever meet any other of our old classmates?" asked Jean.

"Sure. Jessie MacLaren was just in here getting reference books on law. She's David Macken's secretary, you know. And the other day I met Ruth Floyd, who is a traveling saleswoman; and she was telling me about several girls she met. Once, when she stopped for gas, Patricia Honan was the attendant and Virginia Graves was running the stand they had. Then at a carnival, where she stopped, Jean Hill was doing a high dive into four feet of water, and Ralph Paull was doing the barking. Sylvia Lefkowitz runs the boarding house where Ruth often stays in Denver. And when she was in New York last time, and went to the theatre, Eleanor Hodges, Thelma Haberland, and Paula Holmes were in the chorus; and Patricia Holbrook and Leon Marsh did a hilarious comedy skit."

"Well, she certainly has been checking up!" gasped Jean. "Did she meet anyone else, Sydney?"

- "Yes, come to think of it she did. Let's see. Oh, yes. She picked up Marguerite Cushman and Lucille Grimes, who were hitch-hiking to Hollywood, where they planned to besiege Director Albert Hartt. Then she spoke of seeing a bust of Madame MacWillie, the famous prima donna, at Ruth Hanson's Art Shop, which Selma Levine had done. It won the annual prize in sculptoring last year. Oh, there were lots more she spoke of. Isadore Herman is a banker in Chicago, Lester Moody is a broker in Wall Street, Constance Perry, Virginia Coughlin, Marjorie Donovan, Virginia Flynn, Mary Foulkes, and Mary Fox are private secretaries in various corners of the country, whom she has contacted in her business."
  - "Well, we must be going now, Douglas," said Jean.
- "That's a marvelous idea of yours—taking the Bradshaws out to your ranch," said Jean, as they were getting into the ear.
- "It's a swell ranch, too. Joseph Kneeland is my caretaker. Say—wouldn't you like to spend your vacation out there?"
  - "I was hoping you'd ask me to. Who else do I know out there?"
- "Oh, I guess you know Eleanor Leary and Ruth Lloyd, my chefs; and Verna Jenner is my housekeeper. And this will make you laugh; Eileen Merrill and Betty McGuigan work as cow-girls on the next ranch, which is owned by Barbara Hill."
  - "My heavens! Do they actually pay them?"
- "Of course. Why not? They work just as hard as the men. Phyllis Mythen and Ethel Olofson run the general store, where we buy our food. Anna McCulley and Anna Finn have opened a new milliner's shop in the city. In the summer, Rosslyn Krichman, the great Shakespearean actress, often boards at my ranch."
- "Oh, does she? I saw her and Virginia Ingersoll in 'The Last of the Smiths' by Edmund Brown and Patricia Gargin. Muriel Freedman, a New York critic, ripped it to pieces, but Hazel Leonard and Helen Dolan raved about it in their criticisms."
- "Elizabeth Cummings is a wealthy horse funcier, who trades with me a lot. Anna Hamilton and Mildred Goodman, who are finished tapestry workers, visit my ranch also in the summer."
- "Oh, that's wonderful. I am ever so grateful to you for asking me to come. Thank you."

And thus ended a happy day of reminiscences.

THE JUNIOR BALLOT

- Best Student—Fellow Students, if you need any questions answered just ask Sylvia Solomon and Merton Bornstein. If you can't find them around somewhere ask James M. Boyd or Alice MacDonald.
- Best Looking—That schoolgirl complexion is had by none other than Phyllis Somerby and Priscilla Lewis. The masculine beauties are Robert Mc-Gillicuddy and James Bornstein.
- Best Athlete—We find that Philip Bercovitz is the most efficient athlete, with Thomas Welch running a close second. Rita Harding and Madelyn Vance certainly earned their letters.
- Most Dignified—Girls, if you should see two tall, dark, and handsome boys striding down the corridor with their noses in the air (for no reason at all), just call out the names of William Wincapaw and Earle Kiely and you may get some response. The two dignified girls are Marion Cosgrove and Helen Farrell.
- Best Dressed—The spring and summer fashions of Winthrop High are attractive (so are the models). The models who are dressed the neatest, however, are Muriel Schmidt, Margaret O'Neil, William Wincapaw, and James Kennedy.
- Best Bluffer—You'll have to give these people credit because it's hard to think up a good alibi for whenever the occasion demands (which is quite often). We know that Lillian Jackman, Muriel Schmidt, James Kennedy, and James Macken are behind all those "—er—ah's—that is I—er—etc."
- Wittiest—If you hear a joke "cracked" by some female, you'll know it's either Betty McElligott or Eleanor Smith that "cracked" it. The king of wit is his "royal-shyness," Charles Hannaford. Robert Haigh and Jack Staller tied for second place in this most honorable position.
- Best Natured—Yes, sir; they are everyone's friends! With Josephine Nelson, Phyllis Somerby, William Beckler, and Ralph Baker in our midst, the tedious school day seems much shorter.
- Most Pleasing Personalities—Along with her good looks and good nature, Phyllis Somerby has an outstanding personality. Margaret Conway resembles Phyllis in her personality. William Beckler, in utilizing his pleasing characteristics, has won the friendship of many students and teachers. We hope that Edward Sinatra will gain as many friends in Brighton as he has in Winthrop with his pleasing personality.

ACTS OF THE JUNIOR CLASS

ACT I—ATHLETICS

Scene I: A student, completely outfitted in football uniform with exception of his shoes, which were at his side rather than on his feet, is sitting on the grass. A friend, also a member of the team, clumps along, the cleats of his shoes making staccato notes on the cement walk. He is hailed by, "Hey, take off those shoes or you'll ruin them."

Looking at his feet sheepishly, he mutters, "Gee, I forgot; I was thinking." A voice underlined with genuine surprise but draped with sarcasm answers him. "Gracious me! About what?"

"Aw, I'm serious. I was just thinking of us Juniors. Do you remember that eighty-five yard run in the Melrose game? Well, that was done by a Junior. And that isn't all; we make up about sixty per cent of the entire team!"

The other doesn't answer immediately. His eyes become dreamy, and at length he says, "Boy, what a team we'll have next year!"

Scene 2: Miller Field is cold. November winds sweep across the handful of students gathered around. The Junior girls comprising the second hockey team have been playing. Ah! That goal brings us ahead. The general topic of conversation is that the second team has received some very good training. Yes, next year the high school will probably produce a victorious girls' hockey team.

Scene 3: At the boathouse on the Charles River, two Winthrop High students watched their fellow-classmates enter for the first time the Massachusetts inter-scholastic half mile. "Yeh," one yells, "we've won."

Two of the four boys are juniors.

Scene 4: We find ourselves sprawled over the bleachers, under a warm spring sun. The pitcher winds up, hurls the ball over the plate, and strikes out the batter. The game is won by our practically-all-junior team. The coach's face assumes the same beaming expression that it showed last season when the basketball team, also composed of many juniors, gained an added victory.

ACT H-OTHER GENERAL ACTIVITIES

Scene 1: The first ECHO has just come out! Small clusters of students have gathered, reading the various articles. While one young man is scanning the list of Echo Board members, an expression of surprise flits over his face. "Listen to this," he cries. "There are two juniors on the board,—Selma Freeman and James Boyd. That's something new, isn't it?"

Murmurs of agreement answer him. The murmurs change to questions that ask the reason for the change. Finally one of the group realizes the significance of the new edition. "Now," she is saying, "we'll really have some connection with the school paper."

Scene 2: "I thank you, ladies and gentlemen,"—and a junior member of the debating team sits down. The next speaker for Winthrop is another junior.

"What! Another one!" A little pucker of one pair of lips indicates their owner's surprise. He listens and finally states, "Well, Boyd and Bornstein certainly are all right."

Scene 3: The gym has some real straw piled in a corner but the duck is only imitation. A giggle is heard accompanied by the words, "Boy, oh boy, doesn't he look like a regular country rustic"... Couples dance by ... Time dances by ... "Gee, my feet are tired. So long. It was a nice social that the Juniors gave, wasn't it?"

Scene 4: A little girl, clasping a program and her mother, goes for the first time to the school play, this year with an entirely Junior cast. She weeps with heroine, makes love with the hero, and boos the villain. As she is leaving, she says, "Wasn't it swell, Mom?"

Scene 5: It is Sunday morning, April 19. The boy is stirring under his covers. He stretches a bit; he yawns a bit. Reaching for the morning paper, he is startled by the headlines that state that Ruth Bennett, a member of the Junior class, has wen the grand prize of the Suburban Spelling Bee.

"Gee, that's great," he says. Then, proudly, "Say, we're both juniors." He turns to the funnies, "Now, what will people think of the Junior Class?"

In studies it is generally agreed that Julia Ashley and Benjamin Schwartz take the lead; but the names of Virginia Grimes and Richard Lindsay are often seen on the honor roll.

And as for looks—what a disturbance Alice Winters and Bernice Hobden would create in a mechanical drawing class. Nor do the girls think "Eddie" Van Dalinda or "Bobby" Melanson are hard to look at.

"Sis" Haley and Louis Abrams set the crowd agog with their athletic prowess; nor are Anna Jorgensen and "Eddie" Van Dalinda very far behind them.

And when real ladies and gentlemen are needed to hold up the dignity of the class, Olga Goodfriend and William Mahoney or Ruth Hodgkins and Arthur Noyes are called on.

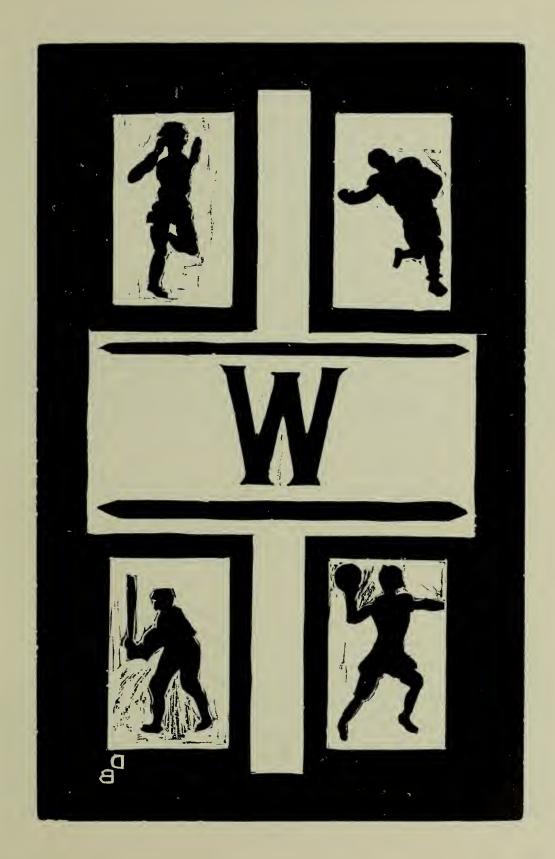

When you girls wish to know the latest styles, just call on Geraldine Brown or Frances Parker and they will show you the newest mode. You boys wouldn't be much out of style if you dressed like "Hubie" Evans or "Ernie" Ford.

But when it comes to fooling the teachers into thinking they were up late studying when they were really out gadding, Jeanne Kershaw and "Jimmie" Conley take the cake. Pauline Flaxman and "Bobbie" Melanson can also do their share of bluffing when the occasion demands.

As for the witty, Jeanne Kershaw, "Bill" Brown, Louis Brown, and "Bobbie" Melanson are able to liven up any gathering with their snappy puns and clever come-backs.

Here's that man again! "Eddie" Van Dalinda's temper is never out of place, nor is Geraldine Brown's; nor is it very often that Jeanne Kershaw and "Joe" Nolen are not good-natured.

Will we never hear the last of them? "Eddie" Van Dalinda and Jeanne Kershaw have topped again as having the most pleasing personalities of the sophomore class; and so are Alice Winters and Louis Abrams just bursting open with personality plus.

THANKSGIVING DAY GAME

Those of us who saw the Thanksgiving Day game between Winthrop and Revere at Miller Field well remember the penetrating wind that froze the spectators in the bleachers and hampered the players on the field. This heavy wind was partly responsible for Winthrop's defeat, for it completely destroyed our well-planned and heretofore successful passing game, which was our strongest offence. Of course, not all the blame for Revere's victory can be laid to our unlucky breaks, for Revere had a very strong line and knew how to use it. If you will remember, they scored in the second by a series of rushes and in the third by intercepting a pass. However, we all fully enjoyed the game, despite the weather and the final score of Revere 12, Winthrop 0. The teams both battled on through the wind and cold, and we fully appreciate the efforts they made. We hold high hopes for next year's team and wish them all the luck in the world.

The lineup was as follows:

le, Kennedy, Archdeacon; lt, Bercovitz, Fullerton; lg, D'Angelo, Bellas; c, Freeman, Foley; rg, Abrams; rt, Welch; re, Reagan, Taintor; qb, Beckler, Gillespie; lhb, Carnicelli; rhb, Comacho; fb, Baumeister, McGillicuddy.

In view of the fact that the football team of Winthrop High had only one letterman who returned to the squad, the Blue and White may be said to have enjoyed an eminently satisfactory season.

The team was very well balanced with several Sophomores and a majority of Juniors filling out the team. Although the team was not as fortunate as that of 1934, the great number of underclassmen on the team make the prospect for 1936 very bright; for Winthrop will lose only nine lettermen at graduation.

The girls' hockey team, under the leadership of Captain Cynthia Harding, fought its way through a difficult schedule; but it met defeat in every game after having put up a hard fight. A lot of credit is due Coach Frances Crowley for the hard work she put in trying to build up a hockey team.

We were very fortunate this year in being able to play two home games, both of which were played at Miller Field.

The Athletic Council at its annual meeting awarded W's to the following girls: Captain Cynthia Harding, Manager Eleanor Balkan, Margaret Hutchinson, Martha Mitten, Margaret Higgins, Priscilla Partridge, Eleanor Witham, Lucille Grimes, Frances Collins, Harriet Goranson, Ruth Lloyd, Betty Snyder.

Rita Harding will succeed her sister, Cynthia, as captain of the 1936-37 team. Eleanor Witham was elected manager.

Candidates for next year's team have already started spring practice. The schedule and scores of the team:

	Winthrop Opponent
October 4—Concord	1 3
October 8—Watertown	0 4
October 11—Arlington	0 2
October 17—Behnont	0 $2$

BASKETBALL

Captain				. David Harrigan
Manager				HENRY SCHREIBER
Coach .				Mr. Robert Perry

Louis Abrams, Andrew Reagan, Thomas Haugh, James Kennedy, Earl Kiely, Harold Winter, Philip Bercovitz, Thomas Welch.

At the call for basketball in the early part of December, 75 candidates reported. Of these, there was but one letterman from last year returning. Captain David Harrigan. Yet with a seemingly hopeless task before him, Mr. Perry put a strong team on the floor at the beginning of the season. The team started the year by defeating a strong Alumni team 25-19, the first defeat for the graduates in three years. From then on, the team played against some of the strongest teams in this section. Although the season's record shows seven defeats and six victories, each game was exceptionally close; for the team never lost by more than seven points but once. Winthrop scored 283 points against its opponents 260.

The team was built around no one individual, but rather on teamwork. The division of scoring points was quite even among all the players. Phil Bercovitz, center, finished with 67 points; Earl Kiely, forward, 55; Captain Harrigan, 53; Harold Winter, guard, 38; and Bill Beckler, guard, 23.

THE BASEBALL TEAM

Captain				. Andrew Reagan
Manager				. George Blair
Coach				MR ROBERT PERRY

The baseball team opened its season on April 25 at Wakefield in a Mystic Valley League game. Mr. Perry's well-coached team turned in a brilliant victory, defeating Wakefield 5-3. On the following Tuesday, the 28th, the team visited Rindge Tech at Russell Field, Cambridge and came away with defeat 8-1. On Saturday, May 2, the Woburn team came to Winthrop to play the team in the first home game on Ingleside Park. The home team was successful in drawing out an exciting 3-2 win before stands packed with enthusiastic Winthrop rooters. The team now awaits important games with Watertown and the smooth-running Melrose nine.

At the beginning of this season Mr. Perry was confronted with lack of experience on the team. There are only two seniors in the starting line-up. They are Captain Andy Reagan and "Dewey" Harrigan. Tom Haugh, a junior, has turned in excellent performances on the mound up to this point. Other pitchers are Harold Winter, Warren Boutelle, Bernie Kneeland, and Bob McGillicuddy. Tom Welch and Wilfred Holsberg are the catchers. The infielders are: Herb Godfrey, first base; "Dewey" Harrigan, second; Andy Reagan, short stop; and Dave Swiman, third base. In the outfield group there is Harold Holgersen, Jim Kennedy, Lou Abrams, and Doug Fullerton.

At this point in the season it appears that Coach Perry has turned out a well-balanced team.

BOYS' TENNIS

Captain					Theodore Beless
Manager					. Robert Belcher
Coach				Mr.	ARTHUR COULMAN

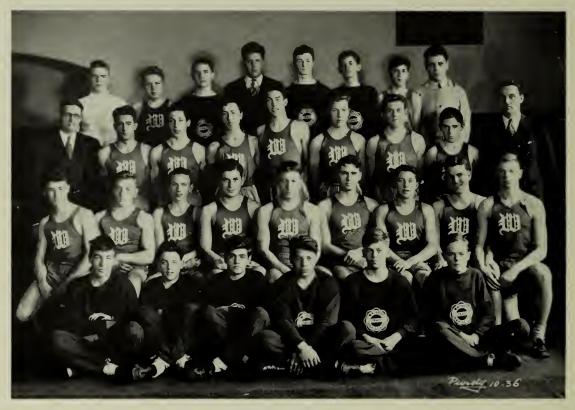

The whole of last year's team responded to the call for candidates, including five lettermen. This year the league has inaugurated a new ruling to the effect that no player can participate in both a singles and doubles match, but can play only one match a meet. The probable lineup is Theodore Beless, Sidney Cohen, Bernard Glaser, Richmond Terry, Robert Topaz, Henry Schreiber, and Lawrence D'Angelo.

GIRLS' TENNIS

Captain					. Ветт	Y SNYDER
Manager					. Pegg	Y Higgins
Coach .				Miss	Frances	CROWLEY

Although at the time of writing the girls have not as yet played any of their matches, they are looking forward to their first match of the season, with Swampscott, on May 11. The rest of the schedule is as follows: May 15, Malden; May 18, Watertown; May 22, Melrose; May 28, Brookline; June 3, Arlington; June 15, Concord. Since the high school does not have access to any courts here in Winthrop, all the matches are played out of town.

Practice is held every Saturday morning under the coaching of Miss Frances Crowley. The team is captained this year by Betty Snyder and managed by Peggy Higgins. The squad includes, in addition: Miriam Shorley, Martha Mitten, Eleanor Balkan, Priscilla Partridge, Madeline Vance, Margaret Wood, Claire Rogers, Dorothy Vitagliano, Cynthia Harding, and Gertrude Snyder.

"I'll Leave It to You," a comedy by Noel Coward, was presented by the Senior Class in December. To Miss Spence and the whole cast should go great credit for the excellent performance which was given.

The plot concerns a poverty-stricken family consisting of a none too brilliant mother and five shiftless children, who all go to work to win the good graces of their millionaire uncle. He tells each (in secret) that he is leaving the money to him; but the secret leaks out and they discover their uncle's inconsistency. When approached with the subject, he admits the whole thing was a hoax—even the fortune—and that he had fooled them in order the help them to make something of their lives. However, all but Sylvia turn against him, even to mother. After a series of rather humorous episodes, Sylvia finally brings the rest to their senses, and all ends happily.

Faculty Adv	visor			. Mi	R. HAROLD J. MORSE

Under the helpful guidance of its new faculty advisor, Mr. Morse, the Science Club has completed an interesting and successful year. The Science Club is directed by the officers and a Junior Executive Board consisting of tifteen members.

This club, containing over one hundred pupils, is, by far, the largest single group in the school; and the existence of such a large club shows the interest of the average student in extra-curricular activity of scientific nature.

The meetings are held once a month, at which illustrated lectures and displays about various phases of physics and chemistry are featured.

Completing its series of meetings, the Science Club closed the 1936 season in May, with an unusual demonstration of physical and chemical phenomena.

Le Cercle Français has finished another successful and entertaining year. With the untiring efforts of Miss Beck and the fine co-operation of the officers and members, a number of enjoyable meetings have been held. The juniors, as well as the seniors, have been well represented at these meetings which have been held once a month.

Each meeting was both opened and closed by the singing of French songs. The programs were carefully arranged, and various things enjoyed, among them lectures, stories, short plays, French games, and recitations. At one meeting games were played and prizes awarded to the winners. Another meeting was devoted to a geography lesson, and others to music and plays. Two outstanding events were the presentation of "Jeanne D'Arc," with Paula Holmes as Jeanne, and the showing of the moving pictures of the Olympic winter sports which were shown at the joint meeting of the French and German Clubs.

To the succeeding classes, the French Club extends its wishes for programs just as instructive and enjoyable as it has had this year.

While the German Club has held only four meetings this year, these four have been interesting and successful. As in previous years, the club joined the German League of Greater Boston. The conclave of the league was held at Girls' Latin School on May 15.

December 20 a Christmas party was held for the club. Gifts were exchanged and an entertainment provided. Several members of the club presented "Little Red Riding Hood," and Selma Berman recited a poem. For the remainder of the meeting the group entertained themselves by singing German songs.

On May 7 the German and French Clubs held a joint meeting. More than an hour's entertainment was provided with the showing of moving pictures of Germany, including two especially interesting reels of the winter Olympic sports at Garmisch-Partenkirchen. Miss Beck succeeded in getting these pictures from the Hamburg-American line.

The club finished a successful season by buying thirty copies of German song books for the clubs of future years,

The Debating Club has had fewer members in 1936 than during previous years, but nevertheless, it has accomplished just as much as in former seasons.

Under the careful supervision of Miss Blackburn, several inter-club debates and also the annual boys' and girls' debate were held. The subject for this annual debate was, "Resolved: That the recently passed neutrality bills should be made permanent." While the boys won last year, this year the girls were victorious.

The members of the debating team were Sumner Freedland, Reevan Levine, Sylvia Indech, Bernard Glaser, Merton Bornstein, and James Boyd.

Under the excellent coaching of Mr. Davis, these people met such teams as Malden High, Christian Youth Endeavor, Revere High, Chelsea High, Boston Latin, and East Providence High.

The two questions debated were, "Resolved: That Congress shall have the power by a two-thirds vote to overrule decisions of the Supreme Court declaring an act of Congress unconstitutional," and, "Resolved: That the United States should have a monopoly over the sale of arms and munitions." Winthrop took the affirmative side of the latter question in the debate with East Providence High.

The Reporters' Club, one of Winthrop High's most recent clubs, was formed under the direction of Mr. Edward R. Snow during the month of February, 1936. At the present time there are ten members belonging to this enterprising club, whose aim is to furnish news of Winthrop High School activities to papers having a circulation in Winthrop. The club carries on a column entitled "This Week at the High School" in the "Winthrop Review," one of Winthrop's two weekly newspapers. The club also contributes to the school newspaper.

After tryouts were held, the following were retained to complete the squad: Francis De Martino, John O'Connor, Edgar Goldsmith, Benjamin Swartz, and Richard Devereux.

Up to date, the team has played three matches, losing to Lynn English 8½ to ½, tying Melrose 4½ to 4½, and in the third match, coming up to predicted form by out-golfing undefeated Wakefield 7½ to 1½.
